The quality and scale of [REDACTED] preclude observation of site details. Track activity was evident at the site in [REDACTED]. On 7 subsequent missions during the winter months, little or no activity can be identified. The next mission [REDACTED] provides mono coverage only but the site can be identified in a midstage of construction. [REDACTED] with stereo coverage, reveals an excavation containing a silo. A small building is south of the launch silo. Mission [REDACTED]
